Benedictine Sisters Featured in National Magazine

CLYDE, Mo. - For a group of women dedicated to a quiet life of prayer living amidst the rolling hills of rural Missouri, word continues to spread about the ministry of the Benedictine Sisters of Perpetual Adoration in Clyde.

After appearing nationally on PBS television and being profiled in the Kansas City Star this spring, the sisters have now been featured in the September/October issue of Hallmark Magazine.

“Living in Harmony: protecting the planet is an act of faith for the sisters at a Missouri monastery” is a six-page chronicles the sisters’ environmental efforts, which include harnessing wind energy, restoring native prairie lands, recycling and renovation, as well as the careful attention paid to the abundance of animal life at home on the monastery grounds.

“For centuries, acting as good stewards of God’s earth has been an important priority for the sisters,” Director of Communications Kelley Baldwin said. “The Hallmark article beautifully demonstrates how the sisters do their part to help protect our world in today’s fast-paced arena where a use-and-toss mentality is prevalent. Most of what they do, the actions they take, can be done by all of us.”

Hallmark is a new lifestyle magazine published by Hallmark and has a readership of more than 550,000.

The September/October issue is available now at booksellers, grocery stores, drug stores, mass merchants and Hallmark Gold Crown stores. To subscribe, please visit www.hallmarkmagazine.com.
